

I strongly support a la carte purchases. Nobody in my family watches any music channels or sports channels, but we have to pay for them as part of the package that contains channels we do watch. I understand that a la carte at the channel level may not be workable, but a la carte at the category level would be. Example: Lifestyle/Entertainment, News/Informational, Family, Movies, Sports, Education/Learning, Music, etc.